P2 Private Dining Suite at Vue de monde

Δ A new private dining suite at Melbourne restaurant Vue de monde has opened, intersecting gastronomy, art and luxury. The P2 Private Dining Suite was created to showcase Dom Pérignon's P2 champagne to discerning customers. The dining, located fifty-five storeys high above the Melbourne skyline, was transformed by Australian contemporary artist Hiromi Tango. Inspired by the process of champagne making, Tango's work presents a vine-like structure of soft sculptural forms. The installation appears like a constellation on the ceiling, using traditional Japanese wrapping method called Otedama.

Coastal Neurosurgery by Ricci Bloch Architecture and Interiors

◀ For the Coastal Neurosurgery in North Gosford, New South Wales, Ricci Bloch Architecture and Interiors has explored the idea of a “room within a room.” An open bookcase acts as a visual spine, creating a formal entry experience and a more intimate reading room off the main waiting space. The sequence of spaces and use of warm, textured materials creates a sense of intimacy within a traditionally anonymous and detached environment. Furniture was customized to suit patients with impaired mobility, with side tables and magazine storage doubling as additional seating options.
